In the past several days there has been another flap going on in Washington with the storm center again in the Interior Dept. Thangs had been rather quiet there since that stormy petrel James Watt left, and it looked like his successor Don Hodel was gonna be one of those dull, grey types who was disinclined to make waves.

But, Lo! & Behold! He finally did it! After suggesting that Lee Iacocca faced possible conflicts of interest in being on both the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Centennial Commission and Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation, which has raised near $250 million for the refurbishing job.

C-O-F Reports Lower Marketings Seen Bearish

Kansas City, Feb. 14 (KRP) — Lower cash cattle prices in the near term were forecast by livestock analysts contacted by Knight-Ridder Financial News after the release today of the USDA seven-state cattle-on-feed report.

Feedlot Cost of Gain

BY DR. MARCUS HOELSCHER
Special to The Weekly Livestock Reporter

Hereford, Tx. — Cost of gain drops. Long time cattle feeders state that Jan. 1986 was one of the mildest Jan. that they have ever experienced. It was also one of the driest.

Steers fed for $53.35 per cwt., down $1.25 per cwt. when compared to the previous month. Heifers fed for $54.05 per cwt., down $1.24 per cwt. Steers were placed on feed at 732 lbs., finished at 1122 lbs., and gained 2.89 lbs. per day for 135 days. Heifers were placed on feed at 697 lbs., finished at 1016 lbs., and gained 2.89 lbs. per day for 135 days.

It should be noted that both steers and heifers were fed fewer days than the previous month. Steers were fed seven fewer days and heifers were fed three fewer days.

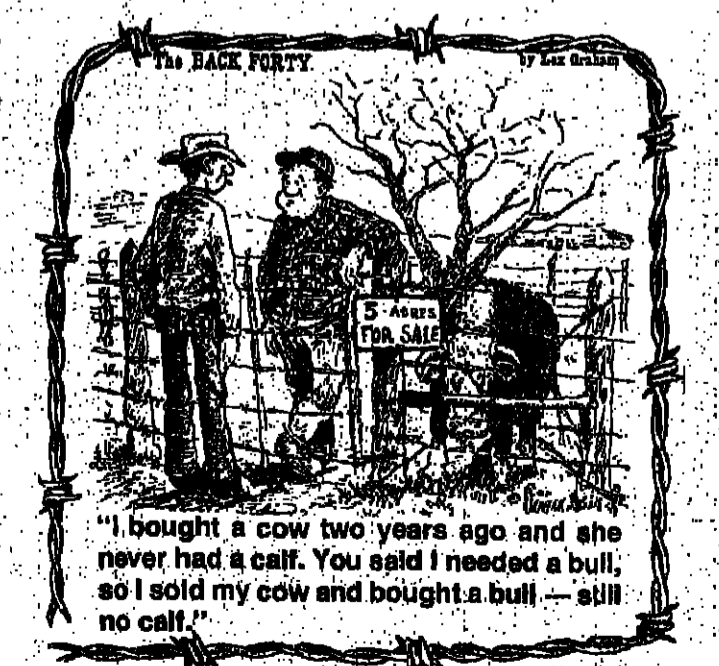

Rations for the current month of Feb. are averaging $113.00 per ton, down one dollar per ton from the previous month. Rations costs include a $20.00 per ton mark-up.

Most yards, thru the first two weeks of Feb., have remained current in movement of fat cattle. However, show lists appear to have a large number of fats to offer thru March.

Fed: We got to keep these fats moving — Marc.

In citing reasons why parents want their children to get into college, Dr. John W. Oswald, executive vice president of the University of California at Berkeley, told of an incident at a midwestern university where a student was turned down because of low grades.

The irate parents descended upon the president, the mother exclaiming, "My goodness, he's so stupid, he'll never make a living without a college education!"

"Let me call you sweetheart," the old song goes. "I'm in love with you." You know who sang that? This Valentine's Day? Minnie Qaddafi... to a mirror.

Other sweethearts are whispering sweet nothings in each other's ear, too. Things like "Wake up and stop that snoring." That is followed by "Now that I'm awake..." which is followed by "Go back to sleep."

So the minister, minister, minister, and own sweetheart for sticking with you all these years. Give her or him something warm. Something big, red, and heart-shaped. Like a hot water bottle.

It's like the old country western song: "You have broke my heart. You just stomped that sucker flat."

The relationship between being sweethearts back then and being sweethearts now is roughly the relationship between the color purple and the number 7.

A child bride who married at 18 and had 7 kids in 12 years was vacationing in Tucson, Arizona, with her sweetheart of that many years. A tour guide pointed out a giant Saguaro cactus and remarked "They don't even bloom until they are 35-years-old." I overheard the lady sigh, "I can relate to that."

For husband said, "Now, sweetheart, you're in the prime of life and we have seven healthy, active children." She replied "Sweetheart, that's one thing I'll say for you. You have such a grasp for the obvious."

Some friends of mine, married 30 years, just went through a scare this Valentine's month. He thought he was having a heart attack. He was rushed to the hospital for a series of tests. It turned out to be something like a bad batch of turnip greens but they decided to do the exam where they run a miniature camera through the veins to check out his system. This guy was a jogger, a health nut, lean, trim, no bad habits. I just knew the doctors were going to tell him to stop exercising, gain weight, and start smoking.

Instead, the medics said their tests showed that he had the heart of a 16-year-old.

Unfortunately, it was surrounded by the body of a 60-year-old.

Now that's a potentially dangerous situation. They released him just before Valentine's day and you know he's going to be anxious to show off to his childhood sweetheart. Just imagine a 60-year-old guy with the heart of a 16-year-old and the banded-up body of a senior citizen. That's where the danger comes in, sweetheart. His heart is going to be making dates his body can't keep. Copyright 1986. Doc Blakey, Pokin' Fun Newspaper Syndicate.

Wool & Mohair

Greeley, Feb. 18 (USDA) - Domestic wool market very slow as shearing in California interrupted by rain and not yet underway in other western states. Demand very light as mills drawing from inventories and also waiting for additional new business. In the territory states approximately 300,000 pounds of feedlot lamb wool, bulk 64s over 2.5 inches 65.75 cents, few 64/62s and 60/62s from 55-62 cents grease FOB. Small clip twelve months 58s at 70 cents grease FOB.

Shearing in the midwest also slowed as very cold temperatures and snow covered the area. Several loads fleece medium 54s sold to the mills at $1.20 clean delivered. Prices to farmers for mixed 48s to 38s mostly 35-38 cents, few 40-42 cents grease FOB.

Foreign wool markets firm in their respective currencies supported by gains on wool finer than 28 micron. However, a stronger U.S. dollar accounted for lower prices in bond at U.S. ports. The Australian wool market indicator was at 552A cents on Wednesday compared to 531 a week earlier.

No new sales Texas mohair confirmed.

Block Confident U.S. To Move Farms From Subsidies

Washington (KRF) - Former USDA Secretary John Block said he is confident Reagan and the Administration will continue to move U.S. agriculture away from costly subsidies.

At a press conference announcing his new job as president of the National American Wholesale Grocers' Association, he criticized some crop programs, saying those for cotton and rice are "so complicated" it is "time we got rid of them."

Block said he expected no problems from the fact USDA secretary-designate Richard Lyng had not been confirmed because crucial details of the crop programs have already been announced.

He said he disagreed with farmers who say the food processing and distributing industry - which he will now represent - had not given farmers a fair deal. "All you have to do is compare the price of food in this country to other countries to know that the industry is more productive and more efficient," he said.

Block said he will be interested in tax reform and legislation affecting transportation rates in his new position.

THE TEXAS EXPERIENCE

"Come and Take It"

When the colonists leader Stephen F. Austin returned to Texas in September, 1835 after spending 18 months in a Mexico City prison, he held the issue of war or peace in his hands. Historian Archie McDonald recounts that despite Anglo fears for Austin's safety, the hush that had fallen over Texas political activity just after his arrest had eroded as local leaders began to challenge centralist authorities.

A key incident stemmed from states' rights leaders' attempts to move the capital of Coahuila y Texas from Saltillo to Monclova, closer to Texas settlements. Mexican General Martin Perfecto de Cos brought central government troops in to suppress the move. The Texans' protests remind students of Texas history that the conflict between central government control and states' independence based on the Mexican Constitution of 1824 sparked the Texas Revolution.

McDonald notes that trouble flared again when Mexican President Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna sent a detachment under Captain Antonio Tenorio to Anahuac at the head of Galveston Bay to enforce the custom law and begin collecting tariffs in 1835. Much to the Texans' dismay, Santa Anna had stopped the customs waver Texas ports had enjoyed in the early years of Anglo settlement. In June 1835, Merchant Andrew Briscoe and Dr. W. C. Harris were arrested for refusing to allow Mexican guards to inspect the contents of a box filled with rocks intended as ballast for a ship. Believing this was only a ruse to mask smuggling, the guards insisted on a search and, becoming alarmed, they discharged their weapons.

An ad hoc meeting of Texans at San Felipe de Austin sent William Travis and 25 men on a mission to Anahuac to drive Tenorio away. When they arrived by barge in Galveston Bay, Tenorio's men took to the woods nearby, but Tenorio surrendered later that evening.

The Mexicans were ordered to move his headquarters to San Antonio and they arrived in time for a July 4th party. There, Peace Party advocates ridiculed Travis' men and treated the Mexicans as honored guests, fearing that the Anahuac incident would bring reprisal from the Mexican government.

They were correct. Cos prepared to move his headquarters to San Antonio and demanded the surrender of "Juliano" Travis and other "outlaws" who had captured Tenorio. This was too much for even the Peace Party supporters. At a gathering in San Felipe on September 19, Austin finally concluded, "War is our only resource. There is no other remedy. We must defend our rights ourselves and our country by force of arms."

Committee of safety called for a consultation of all Texans to determine a course of action, McDonald says, but before they could gather, the Mexican army forced a decision. Col. Ugartechea sent a patrol to Gonzales to confiscate a six-pound cannon used for defense against Indians. Alcade Andrew Ponton refused to release the cannon without written orders. While the patrol returned for the orders, he buried the cannon.

Word of Ugartechea's plans spread among Texans and more men arrived to defend the cannon. They dug it up, readied it for battle, and prepared a flag with a picture of a cannon and the words, "Come and Take It." Their elected leader, Col. J. H. Moore, defied Lt. Francisco Castaneda's 100 troops to take the cannon, and the Mexicans returned to San Antonio because they had not been instructed to use force.

More Texans arrived in Gonzales and they elected Austin as their chief. He agreed to lead them to San Antonio, where they laid siege to Cos's installation. Meanwhile, the consultation formed an interim government, provided for an army, and decided to send Austin and two others to the United States for private and public aid. Edward Burleson succeeded Austin in leadership in San Antonio and in early December, Burleson prepared to withdraw from the city.

to follow him into the city in battle. More than 800 did so, and after a five-day battle, the Texans defeated Cos and ordered his return to Mexico.

Gonzales has been called "the Lexington of the Texas Revolution" by McDonald states that it was the loss of San Antonio which drew the larger armies of Santa Anna north to engage the major battles of that revolution.

Futures Insight

Week Ending Feb. 13

The futures markets continue to fall as collapsing crude oil prices drag all commodities lower. In the short span of 90 days, crude oil prices have fallen over 50% in value. It has been an unprecedented occurrence and the ramifications are just now being felt.

There are very few markets that have been able to avoid this most recent drop in price. As a rule of thumb, the markets that still appear to be in uptrends are the bonds, the currencies and the Dow. Other markets such as grains, livestock and metals look terrible.

But the bonds and the Dow have been so volatile lately, there's no telling where prices for those markets will be 10 days from now. But there is one thing of which I'm certain. The collapse of the crude oil market has brought forth fears of disinflation for all markets and for all commodities.

Which way from here? I'm going to stick my neck out and forecast a Livestock Complex that could be a pleasant surprise for producers in 1986. And at the same time this Complex is presenting aggressive futures traders with some excellent money making opportunities.

What has been hurting the livestock market in recent years is poor demand. Consumer eating habits have changed drastically as we all know. Red meat is out and chicken is in.

It's also common knowledge that if the consumer were to spend the same percentage of their disposable income on beef in 1986, as they did in 1985, the cattle market would be closer to $80 than to $60. Demand has been stinko for years because the consumer is unwilling or unable to spend hard earned money for red meat.

Demand is what livestock prices need. Either the consumer needs to increase their meat consumption or new demand must enter the marketplace. The key for livestock prices here in 1986 could very well be an unexpected surge in red meat consumption.

Recent government reports have shown that the creation of new jobs is picking up. This past month, for example, the non-farm job market was existing a staggering 586,000 jobs were created.

This jump in employment was not an isolated event. In mid January there was an increase of 320,000 workers onto non-farm payrolls. This too was unexpected and this too is an important fundamental for livestock prices.

The recent fall in crude oil prices will soon show up at the pump. As consumers drive away from the gas stations, there will be more money in their pockets. Hopefully they will be driving to their local butcher shop. But cheaper gas could put them in a position to increase their meat consumption.

New demand or increased demand should show itself in the markets by spring. The groundwork has been established. The year 1986 may well be characterized by a sudden surge in new demand. Time will tell.

The supply end of the price equation tilts somewhat towards the "bull" side. The current hog herd is one of the smallest in 30 years. The nation cattle herd is the smallest in 23 years. Producers are being forced out of livestock industry because they need the cash flow. Poor profits and heavy debts are

The financial picture for the hog producing states of Iowa and Illinois is quite fragile. Other hog producing areas are also having problems. It seems that the likelihood of herd expansion is slim. It's possible that another reduction in herd size is closer to what the future may bring.

I remain very bullish towards the entire market. Let's continue to look for the April cattle contract to rally to $64 to $70 before it expires. The June contract has a shot at going to $70.

If the hog market can stay depressed through the months of April and May, a year-end rally seems assured. Establish "long" positions in the hog market on weakness. The cash market should bottom at or near the $40 level. Buy the futures when the cash markets hit that level.

Most livestock "bears" base their arguments on "supply" considerations. The reason being is that it's nearly impossible to gauge "demand." Trying to keep track of demand is like trying to catch the wind.

But the key for livestock prices in 1986 will be demand. And increased demand of some sort seems assured now.

Brinks Break Million Dollar Figure For Fifth Straight Year

For the fifth year in a row, Brinks Brangus Bull Sale exceeded the million dollar figure for a $1,762,600 gross and a $37,289 average on 47 Brangus and 4 Blood bull lots. Glenn Brinkman, General Manager, described this set of bulls as the strongest genetics ever offered at public auction in Brinks eighteen year history.

Just as in previous sales, over 1,000 cattlemen attended the January 25th sale at Slatersdale, Texas, to express their belief in the Brinks program and its genetic strength. Active bidding came from 81 buyers, both registered and commercial cattlemen, out of 13 major cattle producing states and northern Mexico.

This year's special lot, Checkmate of Brinks (87072) opened the event on a sale-topping bid of $870,000. This exciting prospect was sold by Brinks and co-owner Robert Shelton, Kerrville, Texas. One-half of the syndication and (CONT. ON PAGE 16)

The Farm Credit Banks of Texas comprised of the Texas Bank Cooperatives, the Federal Land Bank of Texas and its 44 Federal Land Bank Associations, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Texas, and 28 Production Credit Associations. The banks make loans to 178 of the agricultural and rural utility cooperatives. Collectively, the banks provided more than $1 billion in financing to Texas farmers, ranchers and their cooperatives in 1985.

The TBC annual meeting was held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Texas Agricultural Cooperatives Council, a trade association representing more than 350 of the state's rural utility cooperatives.

Port Worth - Texas Bank Cooperatives (TBC) borrowers some good news at their meeting last week in Fort Worth. According to James Rogers, president of the Farm Credit Banks of Texas, the average interest rates for TBC borrowers fell 1.18 percent in 1985, from 9.8 percent to 8.6 percent.

Likewise, the bank's credit portfolio was one of the highest in the wide Farm Credit System. On loans in the TBC portfolio last year, the top rating possible.

Rogers also addressed the actions of the recently passed Farm Credit Reform Act of 1985. He pointed out one of the provisions of the Farm Credit Reform Act, which requires TBC to equal basis with other lenders to finance rural utilities.

"In the past we have had to turn down a number of loan requests for rural utilities due to eligibility problems. Most of these problems were the lack of sufficient farmers as members of the cooperative."

The requirement in the past was 80% of a rural utility membership to be farmers or ranchers. Because new law does not specify a farmer-to-rancher ratio, TBC now has the authority to make loans to a known total of rural electric and telephone cooperatives as well as certain telephone companies statewide.

against the major bovine respiratory diseases - IBR (Infectious Bovine Rhinotracheitis or Red Nose), BVD (Bovine Viral Diarrhea), P13 (Parainfluenza type 3), HS (Haemophilus somni), and 2 types of Pasteurella. IBR/BVD/P13 & Somtrin/P should become the vaccine-of-choice of producers across the country because of its unique combination of safety, effectiveness and convenience. The vaccine more than meets USDA standards for quality and purity. The viral components of the vaccine are modified live viruses - for the most dependable protection. The bacterin portion is produced serum-free, so the chance of adverse reactions is reduced. Convenience comes with six-way protection in one vaccine, plus Affiliated's easy-resuspension and highly-syringeable formula. The high degree of safety in the IBR/BVD/P13 & Somtrin/P formula also brings more peace of mind. Marketed as "The loaded shot that won't set him back", IBR/BVD/P13 & Somtrin/P is now available through animal health retailers across the country. The vaccine is also available without Pastorella protection. IBR/BVD/P13 & Somtrin/P... ask for it by name.

Nebraska Farmer Makes A Killing in GUARDIAN Sweepstakes

Wayne, NJ — Eldon Hake of Madison, Neb., was the grand prize winner of the GUARDIAN "Making A Killing" Sweepstakes. He received his $10,000 award during a presentation at the January National Cattlemen's Association (NCA) in San Antonio, Tex.

Hake is one of 16 farmers nationwide who won cash prizes in the sweepstakes, sponsored by the Animal Nutrition and Health Department, American Cyanamid. The winners, selected in a random drawing, received prizes totaling $23,000.

The Madison farmer entered the GUARDIAN Sweepstakes while he was attending the Platt County Stocker and Feeder Show in Nebraska. Hake, who has been using GUARDIAN Ear Tags for two years, said he never expected to win when he entered the sweepstakes. Hake also grows 240 acres of corn, alfalfa and soybeans, and said he will use the prize money for his farm operation.

The $10,000 check was awarded to Hake, and his wife, Linda, during a special NCA presentation, by Ken Schuttler, Animal Nutrition and Health Department Manager. During his presentation, Schuttler explained that Hake uses only GUARDIAN Ear Tags for fly control, and noted that the Madison farmer was an example of a producer who knows the importance of a good fly-control program.

It now seems clear that we have not kept the development of our human relations in industry in pace with the development of our production technology. Perhaps for every dollar we spent in scientific research for the development of better products and more efficient machines, we should have spent another dollar in research into the problem of people in industry.

SCOURx® Calf Anti-Diarrheal Now Available From Schering

Kenilworth, NJ — Schering Animal Health is now marketing SCOURx®, a safe and effective treatment for diarrhea in newborn calves.

SCOURx successfully controls diarrhea by conserving the calf's own essential body fluids, says Dennis White, product manager. In addition, SCOURx is easily administered and leaves no drug residue.

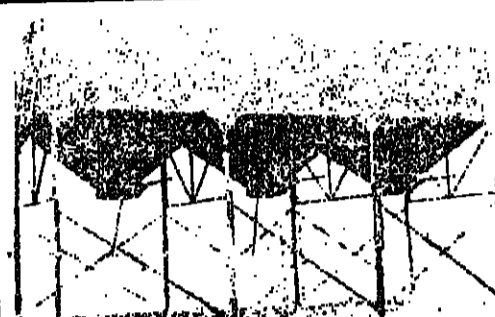

The active ingredient in SCOURx is pre-digested starch, which works in the calf's intestinal tract to stimulate fluid absorption.

SCOURx is easily administered in nonmedicated liquids. It mixes instantly with colostrum, milk replacers or water at any temperature. The mixture flows readily and can be fed in a nipple bottle, bucket or esophageal feeder.

SCOURx is also FDA approved for complete safety. White adds, "It is not a drug, so it leaves no tissue residue and needs no withdrawal period before slaughter."

Even as it controls diarrhea,

Hawkeye Steel Products Purchases Brower Mfg. Co.

The poultry and livestock equipment lines of Brower Manufacturing Company, have been purchased by Hawkeye Steel Products, Inc. of Houghton, Iowa. Brower, was founded as a mail order supply house in Quincy, Illinois, in 1922 by William Brower. While manufacturing a wide range of poultry, horse, pot and swine equipment, Brower is most noted as a dominate factor in supplying equipment for family poultry flocks, both in the U.S. and as an exporter to numerous countries. Brower also supplies the commercial poultry industry with automatic feeding and watering systems.

The Brower operation will be consolidated in Houghton, Iowa, by February of 1986. The Houghton facility serves as headquarters for Conrad-American and Eaton, manufacturers of grain storage and related equipment and also for the manufacture of Pride of the Farm and Marlor equipment.

The consolidation reflects the continuing trend toward agricultural manufacturers becoming more efficient. The Pride of the Farm Brower/Conrad-American combination represents an exceptional opportunity in that the product lines are counter-industry permitting the leveling of production. Further, company dealers will be able to single source virtually any farmstead equipment for grain storage, poultry, and livestock production.

Oregon Rancher is Named Cattle Businessman of the Year

San Antonio, TX — Ron Baker of Hermiston, Or. was named the National Cattlemen Association's 1986 "Cattle Businessman of the Year" at the association's annual convention.

The 52-year-old rancher is president of C&B Livestock, Inc., an integrated cattle operation which includes a 20,000-head feedlot, a cow/calf division, an extensive genetic improvement division and a 4,500-acre farm. Baker is also a pioneer in using breeding technology to meet consumer needs.

"It is a great pleasure to present this award to Ron Baker," noted Jo Ann Smith, president of the National Cattlemen's Association. "He has exemplified the characteristics of a businessman and has demonstrated diversity with the industry."

The award sponsored by Purina Mills, Inc. was given to Baker based on his innovative management practices and leadership in the beef industry, according to Jerry Palmer, director of the Beef Cattle Business Group at Purina. "Ron has been instrumental in developing and perfecting many of the production techniques cattlemen use today," he said. "By pioneering risk management techniques and sharing his ideas with other cattle producers, Ron has served both the cattle industry and his clients well."

Palmer presented Baker with a redwood and marble replica of the permanent "Cattle Businessman of the Year" plaque, which hangs in the NCA's national headquarters in Denver. There, Baker's name will be inscribed along with those of past winners.

Along with the plaque, Palmer presented Baker with a check for $1,000 and a second check for $10,000, in Baker's name, to The National Cattlemen's Foundation for use in cattle research, promotion and educational programs.

Baker was nominated for this year's award by Dr. Ludwig Eisgruber, Dean of Agricultural Sciences at Oregon

Vince Lombardi, the great coach of the Green Bay Packers, caught one of his players, Max McGee, breaking curfew and fined him $250. A couple of nights later he caught Max again. This time he doubled the fine to $500. Then he told McGee firmly, "And the next time it will be $1,000." Lombardi started to walk away, stopped, a small smile came across his face. "By the way, Max," he added, "if you find anything worth $1,000, let me know. I may go with you."

When you tell people they have done a job well — you create a special kind of pride. The natural reaction is to try even harder. People thrive on praise.

SANTA GERTRUDIS BREEDERS INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Santa Circuit by Buddy Smith

A large crowd was on hand in Fort Worth, Texas to see judge Dick Vesper of Cotulla, Texas judge a very large show of excellent quality Santas. The weather was great. In fact it was nice in Fort Worth during the show than anyone could remember. Everyone was standing around in shirt sleeves. Over Yonder Ranch has the Calf Champion with their early junior heifer calf out of High Pockets 438. Cow Track W Ranch had the Yearling Champion with their late summer yearling heifer 555 which is a Santa Syndicate heifer out of Wasson's "Saasquatch" and the "Picture Cow" 300. She went on to be the Reserve Grand Champion and join her brother 355/5 to win the Produce of Dam, El Colla Ranch had the Senior Champion and Grand Champion female of the show with their "Gator" daughter 10. Cow Track W and Williams Double JJ Ranch had the Bull Calf Champion with their "Legacy" 513 who is an embryo calf out of Changer and 1321. Chaparral Ranch had the Yearling Champion with their "Pico" bred bull. Porter Rodgers Farms had the Senior Champion and Grand Champion bull with 188. He is a May '85 son of St. Nick 908 and is their nomination to the Western Heritage Sale. Indian Valley Ranch had the Champion and 4th place Produce of Dam — winners out of the "Picture Cow" 300. The animals used in the Western Heritage Sale and bull 355/5. This is the senior bull calf that was selected Reserve Calf Champion and is being sold at the "Tribute Sale". Indian Valley comes back to win the Champion Get of Sire class with his three embryo calves 355/5, 355/5 and 355/5 who are out of the "Picture Cow" 300 and "Husler" 920. These are the three calves that won the Get of Sire class at Dallas last fall.

The Premier cow/calf Futurity raised $18,300.00 for the Santa Gertrudis Futurity which was started by Amie Ranch and Farrell Amie's cow "Farrell's Christmas" 311/8. The Futurity winners were: Over Yonder Ranch, first; El Colla Ranch, second; and Long Fellow Ranch, third. If you didn't get a chance at a trophy buck or get to make a good quail hunt this year, you need to check with Dale Elrod of La Paloma Ranch. They have gone commercial on their hunting and it is good. Larus and I went bird hunting with Dale in January and got into a lot of birds. Dale has some twenty odd bird dogs, hunting jeeps and a camp house to make for a memorable hunt. While we were there we had a good visit with Kathleen and the kids and had a chance to see his embryo calves out of the "Picture Cow" 300 and "Husler" 920. Call Dale and line up a hunt for next year.

While looking at the Western Heritage nominated cattle, I had the chance to go out to David Murdock's Ventura Farms at Thousand Oaks, California. What a place! It has over twenty miles of "Man-O-War" fencing on it, not to mention some top Santas. Their Western Heritage cow is an own daughter of 9508. He's the bull they bought in partnership with Chaparral Ranch from Nine Bar Ranch at the Integrity Sale. They are making plans to have a production sale somewhere in Texas during the month of June. It will feature the production of 9508 and "Boxer" their 4C Ranch Western Heritage bull. They will also be selling some of their foundation cows.

By the time most of you receive this issue the three day Santa Gertrudis sale in Houston, Texas will be history. I'm referring to "The Tribute" Sale held at the Marriott Hotel, February 20th the Santa Gertrudis open show at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, February 21st followed by the All Polled Sale and the Mid-Coast Santa Gertrudis Super Sale, February 22nd in the Astrohall Super Sale. Having the opportunity to view over five hundred of quality Santa Gertrudis gathered for these four events promises to be awesome. To those of you who, for one reason or another missed out on this, start planning now to join us for an even greater sale in February 1987. Watch for a full report in next month's Santa Circuit.

See ya down the road.

The Premier Santa Gertrudis Association sponsored the all-new Premier Cow/Calf Futurity and Sale on January 19, 1986.

To build team spirit at UCLA, John Woden said that he wanted the basketball player who scored to give a smile or a wink or a nod to the player who gave him a good pass or a good screen or who got the last rebound.

Once a player asked, "What if he's not looking?"

Replied Woden: "I guarantee he'll look. If he's not looking, I will be."

No New Fever Tick Infestations

Austin - No additional infestations of fever ticks have been reported this year from movement of cattle from a herd found to be infested in December, 1985, according to Dr. John W.
Holcombe, Executive Director, Texas
Animal Health Commission.

Ray Murphy of Brownsville first reported on December 3, 1985 what he believed to be a fever tick to an inspector, who submitted samples which were verified as fever ticks.

"The specific source of the cattle fever ticks has not been identified. His cattle may well have gotten ticks from the adjacent infested livestock. The small adjacent herds are of unknown origin, and they commingle with wandering livestock in the area," Dr.
Holcombe explained.

Dipping of cattle on the Murphy farm is underway, the cattle from quarantin-have been dipped and to be free of fever ticks when they are sold.

It is the cooperation of ranchers such as Mr. Murphy that aids us immensely in control of fever ticks. His reporting of fever ticks, even at economic hardship on his part, helps us in keeping tick infestations at a minimum. We need this type of cooperation by ranchers, particularly in the area along the Rio Grande River, to report suspected fever ticks," Dr. Holcombe said.

A weekly report of activities in measures are continuing in a routine manner with good cooperation from affected ranchers.

In all, there have been 20 counties involved. Only Cameron and Starr counties have infestations. Quarantines on one or more premises are imposed in these counties: Austin, Bee, Brooks, Colorado, DeWitt, Duval, Fort Bend,
Frio, Goliad, Jim Wells, Karnes,

Wharton, Hidalgo and Zapata.

Nobody should be chief executive officer of anything for more than five or six years. By then he's stale, bored, and utterly dependent on his own cliches - though they may have been revolutionary ideas when he first brought them to the office.

Pharris Farms Polled Hereford Sale Grosses $2,894,275

Polled Hereford enthusiasts from across the United States and Canada were in attendance for the Pharris Farms "Excellence '86" Sale held at the ranch in Hillsboro, Texas on January 28, 1986. It was only a short year ago when "Excellence '86" rewrote the Polled Hereford auction record books. "Excellence '86" was not to be outdone, with exceptional entertainment for the international extravaganza on January 28 from singer Helen Reddy. When the final lot had passed through the auction ring on sale day, there was a total gross of $2,894,275. Breakdown of the sale as follows: 2 bulls averaged $11,200, 1 semen package grossed $6,800, 71 females averaged $38,683, 73 lots averaged $37,911, 8 flushes averaged $40,000. Topping the sale at $400,000 was Verlon Yellow Rose 6228, a daughter of Verlon 107H Much More, that sold to PRL 690K Holline 347N going to Larry Newel of Dallas, Texas. Polled Hereford 27 of Dallas paid $850,000 to take home JBS JLC DB Hickory's Honey, a July 1984 daughter of JBS Enforcer 107H that sold to PRL 690K Holline 347N. Polled Hereford 27 also paid $250,000 for PRL MS Kayline 810S, a daughter of PRL 690K Holline 347N that sold to KLC RB8 Perfection. Robertson Group of Fort Worth (a volume buyer in the sale) purchased one-half interest in the recent national reserve champion heifer at the National Polled Hereford Show in Denver, Colorado, BT Vicress 4087. They paid $800,000 for this consignment of Bear-tooth Ranch and Pharris Farms. They also paid $70,000 for a flush out of this lot. Moody Syndicate of Arlington made several purchases at the sale, with one of their high buys being a pick of the flush from the 1985 International (CONT. ON PAGE 11)

155 Polled Herefords Compete At Fort Worth Standard Of Perfection

Showing veterans led the championship roster at the Fort Worth Polled Hereford Standard of Perfection (SOP) Show. Held in conjunction with the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show on Jan. 28, breeders from across the nation pulled in 155 head of cattle. Tom Shaw of Caldwell, Idaho, lined up the day's entries in the show dedicated to Glen and Lillian Allen of Hillsboro, Texas. The Allens have worked tirelessly breeding Polled Herefords since 1951, and cattle under the GLA banner have won championships all over the United States. Glen has served many years in leadership roles with the Texas and Central Texas Polled Hereford Associations, and Lillian helped spearhead the Pol-ette organization and their youth activities. Bravo, a strong contender from the northeast, snatched the senior and grand champion bull titles. This son of PRL 390K Holline 347N holds three grand champion titles in his show career, including the purple banner from the Tennessee Valley A&I Fair SOP Show. His owners include ACE Polled Hereford, Millbrook, N.Y.; Tammy Farms, Easton, Md.; Marshall Farms, Port Byron, N.Y.; and Eaton Farms, Farmersville Station, N.Y. ACE returned to the victory circle with Napa Valley Polled Herefords, Napa, Calif., for the grand champion heifer banner. Junior champion ACE NV Fleurtaffon, an Enforcer 107H daughter, took the title. She was grand champion at the New York State Fair and the Eastern States Exposition this show season. Tennessee River Music Inc., and Bent Tree Farms, both of Fort Payne, Ala., allied for the reserve junior and reserve grand champion heifer honors. Wild Cat Sundance 7K sired this April '84 heifer, who was junior champion at the 63rd National Polled Hereford Show two
